An author has a reason for writing.

An author can write to persuade—to convince the reader to think or act a certain way.

An author can write to inform or explain something or to describe something.

An author can write to entertain.

Remember: PIE (persuade, inform and entertain)